(What we think)

“Love your neighbour as yourself”. Only a few verses of the New Testament are as familiar as this one is.

“Had God wanted, He could have made you into one nation, but He wanted to see who are the more pious ones among you. Compete with each other in righteousness. All of you will return to God who will tell you the truth in the matter of your differences.”(Koran 5,48)

The bible and koran and the scriptures of other religions call for us to love our neighbour and for peace in a similar way.

We as a community of people with different religions, particularly Christians and Muslims, who work together in a foundation would like to contribute to realising this aim. Instead of pointing out differences we would like to look for what unifies us – by accepting the differences and uniqueness of the other.

(What we support)

Through our activities we support mutual understanding as it facilitates a peaceful coexistence.

Therefore, we support projects such as relevant seminars on pedagogical training as well as meetings between members of different religions and cultures (e.g. in sport, music, literature) and other projects on interdenominational understanding.

Besides, we also realise own projects such as scientific research on the treatment and well-being of Muslims in hospital, a public breaking of the fast for a meeting between Muslims with members of other religions. An Arabian-German school exchange could also be carried out.

Should you be involved in interdenominational understanding and there is a funding shortfall for a planned project, please do not hesitate to contact us. We would be happy to support you insofar as your intention meets our funding guidelines and statute. Every other form of personal cooperation is most welcome.
